Dr. Ruth M. Lencione

SYRACUSE PROFESSOR IS KEYNOTE SPEAKER

SPEECH THERAPY SEMINAR HELD DECEMBER 1

In a world that grows smaller every day, the need for effective communications becomes more and more paramount. Yet many people find verbal communication increasingly difficult due to pathological disturbances. The teaching staff at the HLCS explored this situation in a Speech Therapy Seminar, Friday, December 1.

Dr. Ruth M. Lencione, noted Associate Professor of Speech Pathology at Syracuse University discussed "Speech and Language Disorders in Children" in a one hour formal presentation that was followed by a question and answer period. School was dismissed at noon that day so that the professional staff could hear Dr. Lencione. She is well versed in this field, having contributed chapters to two text books used in speech therapy classes ("Cerebral Palsy," and "The Habilitative Management of the Child with Cleft Palate,") and several communication bulletins.

MISS VERA CALVOS IS VISITOR AT SCHOOL

The second visitor from a foreign country was in our school recently. Miss Vera Calvos whose native country is Argentina arrived in time on a Thursday evening to speak at the P.T.A., and visited classes in the school on the following day. Showing a marvelous film about Argentina preceded Miss Calvos lecture and question and answer period.

Miss Vera Calvos in Third Grade Classroom

Miss Calvos, who spoke to two assemblies, several classes, and toured the school, was much impressed with the school system, the village, the scenery, and the friendliness of the people.

GRAZING COMMUNITIES STUDIED IN THIRD GRADE

As part of the new unit in social studies, Grazing Communities, Mrs. Webb's third grade have just finished two projects used as culminating activities. The unit covers the Navaho Indians who graze sheep on the desert of Arizona and the Nomads who do likewise on the Sahara Desert in Africa. The class compared and contrasted the Nomads and the Navahos.

The first project was clay figures of Navahos, their homes, sheep, food they eat, totem poles and pottery. The students also made clay figures of camels, Nomads, tents, pottery, etc. They colored the clay figures with food coloring and made a diorama displaying their efforts.

FOUR SENIORS PARTICIPATE IN AREA ALL STATE MUSIC FESTIVAL

The area All-State Music Festival was held in Glens Falls this year on November 17 and 18. Students from twenty-four schools participated in this state wide affair. Students from each school were selected according to their aptibility and musicianship and were chosen as members of an orchestra, band or chorus. Rehearsals were held for each organization on Friday afternoon and evening and then again on Saturday morning and afternoon. An evening concert was given on Saturday which was largely attended by the public.

The students from our school representing the area band were: Marlene Powers who plays the trombone; Ettalean Angell, who plays the bass clarinet; Robert Locke, who plays the tuba; and Gilbert Dean, who plays the cornet. Mr. Robert Davis, Band Director, took the group and stayed with them throughout the music festival.

TEACHERS ATTEND CURRICULUM CONFERENCE

Continuing a series of bi-annual national invitational curriculum conferences, Teachers College, Columbia University sponsored "Technology and the Curriculum" November 8, 9, and 10.

Mrs. Harriet Vroman, mathematics instructor, and Mrs. Mary Sullivan of the Business Education Department at the HLCS spent a week at the University where they heard presentations made by people who are among our nation's most perceptive and insightful observers of the passing scene. To enable educators to comprehend more clearly the nature of modern technology and its implications for curriculum development, the presentation focused on cybernation and its impact on American Society; future manpower needs and their curriculum implications; and the response of the "Knowledge Industry" to the demand for a more relevant education.

Mrs. Vroman and Mrs. Sullivan have been present for the complete conference series originating in 1961 with "Curriculum Crossroads;" 1963 "Assessment of the Curriculum;" and 1965 "Precedents and Promise." Their participation at these sessions is made possible through a grant to the school from the International Paper Company Foundation.

Dr. Lencione, who recently was Assistant Editor of the New York State Hearing and Speech Association is a member of the American Academy for Cerebral Palsy, American Cleft Palate Association, and Council for Exceptional Children. She has conducted and taken part in many consultationships and workshops in speech therapy across the country in addition to her current position at Syracuse in the school of Education Division of Speech Education and Rehabilitation. Dr. Lencione, who has received four Post-Doctorate grants, received her BA, MA, and PH.D. degrees from Northwestern University.

Listed in "Who's Who in American Education" and "Who's Who in American Women" she has an intensive background as Speech Correction Teacher and Chairman of the Speech Department in Chicago Public Schools. Aside from college teaching at Syracuse, Dr. Lencione has also taught at Northwestern and the University of Tennessee.

COMMITTEE NAMED FOR SEMINAR

The Speech Therapy Seminar was chaired by Mrs. Doris Mix. Mrs. Evelyn Lockwood introduced the speaker. Other committee heads included: Ronald Dickens--Invitations; Keith Legg--Hospitality; Diana Pataki and Mary LaFountain--Decorations; Evelyn MacFarland and Clarissa Newton--Luncheon Details; Donald Racette--Publicity; and Betty Meyers--Programs.

GRAZING COMMUNITIES

Secondly, all the third graders made hand puppets also corresponding with the unit of work. First, a bulletin board was made in the hall and chalked in was a Hogan for the Navahos and a tent for the Nomads. Then puppets were made using a sock, buttons for eyes and nose, felt for mouth, red material scraps for headbands on Indians and Nomads. The boys and girls constructed tails and ears for the camels, dogs, and sheep out of colored construction paper.

The results of their efforts were pleasing to the students who enjoyed the project very much. After displaying the puppets, a puppet show is being planned in order to interweave social studies with language arts.

MR. L. STALEY PRESENTS "THIS ATOMIC WORLD"

Our students were pleasantly surprised when the traveling exhibit of the Atomic Energy Commission stopped at the school. An assembly program entitled "This Atomic World" was presented to grades 6-12. This was sponsored by the A.E.C. and was presented by Mr. L. Staley of the Empire State Atomic Development Associates in cooperation with Oak Ridge Associated Universities, Oak Ridge, Tennessee.

The program "This Atomic World" was concerned with the basic principles of atomic energy and its beneficial application. The role of the atom in agriculture, industry and medicine was explained. In addition, the growing importance of atomic research was stressed.

The program was highlighted with many demonstrations. Miss Suzanne Gazaille in the above picture is showing the effects of the Van de Graaff generator. This machine is used extensively as an atom smasher to unlock the secrets of the atom.
